I am a full stack developer with 6 years of programming experience and 2nd year student studying in Islington College. My programming journey started back in late 2016 when I started using java bytecode (smali) to modify proprietary android app, which gave me a good understanding about internal android APIs and core concepts. I then began learning flutter for frontend development about 2 years ago. I have worked on 55 personal/freelance projects and 4 office projects. I enjoy working in agile teams.
